GAME PREVIEW:

Otterbein and Wittenberg both look to get into the win column after difficult starts to the year.

The Cardinals have taken the last two matchups in this series, earning a 3-0 victory back in 2018 and then getting a second-half goal from Lauren Alley to escape Springfield last year with a narrow 1-0 decision.... despite posting a 17-4 shot advantage.

Otterbein has endured a challenging stretch lately, facing nationally-ranked CWRU on the road before having a nearby contest at OWU canceled due to field conditions. The Cards then fell victim to an undefeated RIT squad up in New York over the weekend.

Wittenberg is also striving for its first win, losing matches to Ohio Northern (2-0), John Carroll (2-1) and Carnegie Mellon (3-0) around a 1-1 draw with Heidelberg.

Both programs were highly regarded by league counterparts coming into this season. Otterbein was charted as preseason favorite in the OAC while Wittenberg was picked second in the NCAC, only behind the Big Red of Denison.

Rae Ehrbar represents Otterbein's lone goal this season for a team that has shuffled the lineup and looking to break through offensively.

This is the fourth of six matchups with OAC schools on the slate for Wittenberg, which is also set to play Mount Union and Capital as the non-conference portion of the calendar progresses.
